Profiting from Patents
Generating revenue and optimizing portfolios through strategic transactions

In today's innovation economy, patents are more than legal protections—they're strategic assets that shape corporate valuation, drive revenue, and create competitive advantage. Our latest report, Profiting from Patents, explores the forces fueling a surge in global patent activity and the rise of high-value transactions in areas like AI, 5G, and SEPs. Inside you'll find practical strategies for maximizing value from patent assets, optimizing IP portfolios for business goals, and navigating a fast-moving transaction landscape.

Traditional vs. AI-Assisted Source Code Review in IP Litigation: A Comparative Perspective

In recent years, artificial intelligence (AI) has started to reshape how professionals approach complex technical tasks—from writing code to analyzing it. In the context of intellectual property (IP) litigation, this raises an important question: can AI also support the intricate process of source code review?

Making an Impact Together: Volunteering at Harvesters

UnitedLex team members gathered for an inspiring day of volunteering last month at Harvesters in Kansas City, an organization that provides food and household products to more than 900 nonprofit agencies— including emergency food pantries, community kitchens, homeless shelters, children's homes, and others. We're grateful for the chance to show up in our community!
